
Phillips Kiln Services Europe (PKSE) is changing its name to British Rema Rotary Engineering – as we become a division of British Rema.

The legal entity Phillips Kiln Services Europe Ltd (PKSE) has changed its name to British Rema Rotary Engineering Ltd and will trade under that name from 3rd June 2019.

PKSE was originally formed in 1992 as a joint venture between British Rema and Phillips Kiln Services Inc. and in September 2017 became a wholly-owned subsidiary of British Rema.

Our new structure and website

As British Rema Rotary Engineering is now a fully independent company within the British Rema Group, with the same ethos, values and standards as our powder processing and process equipment divisions, we have decided to unite our three divisions under one common operating brand.

To convey the broad range of services and products which the British Rema Group offers, we have also taken this opportunity to refresh the British Rema branding and update our website.

Please visit our engaging, informative and accessible new website at britishrema.com to learn more about our group, or visit our dedicated Rotary Engineering section.

What does this name change mean for you?

We will continue to provide the very best independent and comprehensive field and technical services that cover every stage of a rotary vessel's mechanical life.

Please be assured that only the name of our company has changed. There are no changes in how or who you deal with at British Rema Rotary Engineering Ltd or the range of mechanical maintenance services and products we supply to optimise the service life of all rotary kilns and vessels.

The following remain the same as before and have not changed:

- Limited company registration number and address details
- Site locations and office details
- VAT and banking arrangements
- Contractual terms

Contact details

Our contact details have not changed except all emails will now become @britishrema.com.

As a result you will now receive emails from your contacts in the format:
firstname.surname@britishrema.com.

Please update your contact information and use this format for communicating with us.

Business as usual

We remain committed to providing you with the very best possible service on every occasion and thank you for your continued custom and support.

If you have any questions regarding our change of company name, please do not hesitate to contact our rotary engineering office:

+44 (0)1246 292700
rotaryknowhow@britishrema.com

Yours faithfully,
John D. Cameron
Director